Notes

Don't focus on the website now while making URS.

For every functional requirement there should be a use case. Use case is a further explanation of the requirements. It shows how the user could do the action stated in the requirements.

All use cases should be linked to a functional requirement. So the same amount of UC and FR.

For use cases, stay at sea level (not too specific or too vague).

Make sure you include GUI/wireframes for the most important pages. Not for every error box etc.

Send documents by Sunday 23:59.
